TODAY IN HISTORY

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Oct. 1, the 274th day of 2010. There are 91 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In the early hours of Oct. 1, 1910, the offices of the Los Angeles Times were destroyed when a bomb exploded, igniting a natural gas fire; 21 Times employees were killed. The paper had been targeted because of its fiercely anti-union publisher, Harrison Gray Otis; iron worker James B. McNamara later pleaded guilty to planting the bomb and was sentenced to life in prison.

On this date:

In 1810, America's first agricultural fair, the Berkshire Cattle Show, took place in Pittsfield, Mass.

In 1936, Gen. Francisco Franco was proclaimed the head of an insurgent Spanish state.

In 1908, Henry Ford introduced his Model T automobile to the market.

In 1939, Winston Churchill, recently appointed First Lord of the Admiralty by British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, described Russia as "a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma" during a radio address on the invasion of Poland by Nazi Germany and the Soviet Union.

Ten years ago:

Pope John Paul II declared sainthood for 120 Chinese and foreign missionaries killed in the church's five-century struggle in China. John Paul named three other new saints as well, including former American socialite Katharine Drexel.

Five years ago:

Three suicide bombers struck three restaurants in Bali, Indonesia, killing 20 victims. U.S. millionaire scientist Gregory Olsen and an American-Russian crew blasted off from Kazakhstan on a journey to the international space station.

One year ago:

The U.S. and five other world powers held high-stakes talks with Iran in Geneva to demand a freeze of its nuclear activities; President Barack Obama called the discussions a constructive beginning. "Late Show" host David Letterman acknowledged having sexual relationships with some female staffers as "48 Hours Mystery" producer Joe Halderman was charged in a blackmail plot. Halderman later pleaded guilty to attempted grand larceny and served four months in jail.

Today's birthdays:

Former President Jimmy Carter is 86. Pianist Roger Williams is 86. Actor Tom Bosley is 83. Actress-singer Julie Andrews is 75. Actress Stella Stevens is 72. Actress Sarah Drew (TV: "Grey's Anatomy") is 30. Actress Jurnee Smollett is 24.

Thought for today:

"It is not easy to find happiness in ourselves, and it is not possible to find it elsewhere." — Agnes Repplier, U.S. essayist (1858-1950).

World Peace Day events start Sunday

Special to The Advocate

The celebration of World Peace Day kicks off with ceremonies and an art exhibit Sunday at the State Capitol.

An interfaith service and multicultural entertainment from across the state are scheduled at 2 p.m. in the Capitol Rotunda.

The World Peace Committee in partnership with the Legislative Youth Advisory Council is hosting the exhibit "Artists as Peacemakers," which opens afterward in the Rotunda. Artwork by students from throughout the state expressing what world peace means to them also will be on display. It is free and open to the public. The exhibit will remain on display from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Sundays through Oct. 31.

At 6 p.m. Oct. 7 a youth forum/panel discussion will be held at the LSU International Cultural Center, 3365 Dalrymple Drive. The discussion will center on the topics of "What world peace means to you" and "How artists as peacemakers touched your life." Panels will be composed of international and American students from LSU, Southern University and Baton Rouge Community College. For more information, contact Lisa Lincoln at (337) 303-2680.
